Botanic Garden
May - October 2010

The United Nations proclaimed 2010 to be the International Year of Biodiversity. The aim is to raise public awareness for the meaning of biodiversity for every human being on earth.

In the Botanic Garden of Delft University of Technology, the event will also be highlighted. Using text and images, and from various points of view, biodiversity is being presented in the Garden's Orangery. Moreover, parts of the Garden have been laid out according to this theme.
